He lives on Pearl Street, Mattapoissett with his host "family", Mr. and Mrs. George King and their son, Michael. He makes his home with them this year as an American Field Service exchange student from the Republic of Costa Rica.

Eddie arrived in this country in August and has used this time here to become familiar with the town and to polish his English. He flew from Costa Rica to Bermuda where he and other AFS students were given an indoctrination course on the U.S.A. and then flown to Miami. He and other students bound for New England traveled by bus from Florida to New York in a "sing along" trip that lasted, in shifts, for the whole trip. From New York he was flown to Boston where he met the King family. The night of his arrival in Mattapoissett was band concert night and Eddie was very much at home in this atmosphere since Costa Ricans gather evenings in the city squares to enjoy the evening in the company of their Eddie helps his father in the grocery store which Mr. Campos owns. Mr. and Mrs. Campos have a large family. There have been 15 children. Ten are living and Eduardo is the youngest. He said that, on weekends, his nieces and nephews, 36 of them, like to gather at his home so that there is much activity in this close Campos family.

Last Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. King held an open house to introduce Eddie to local townspeople. He showed slides of Costa Rica and gave a very interesting commentary. The rich agricultural country in the meseta central is cultivated for bananas, coffee and cacao and half of the entire area is wooded.

Balsa, cativo, cedar, mahogany, oak and rubber trees are plentiful in the coastal plains and lower slopes.

The beaches of the country are very beautiful and extremely hot. This difference was interesting to Eddie since the New England coast is cooled by the sea. Water skiing and surf boarding are not popular because of the danger from sharks.

This coast was visited by Columbus in 1502. He landed at Limon and named the country Costa Rico which is Spanish for Rich Coast. The country is roughly 2 1/2 times the size of Massachusetts and the population of San Jose with its suburbs compares with the population of New Bedford.

Eddie will attend Old Rochester this year and will then return to complete high school and examinations to prepare for entrance into a university.

CREATIVE SANDWICHES FEATURE DATE-NUT LOAF

Whether you're an expert baker or a novice in the kitchen, you'll have no difficulty at all with this quick-and-easy Date-Nut Loaf. Bake it at your convenience in the morning and have it ready to serve — hot and hearty — at snack time.

Flavored with nuts and dates, this appetizing loaf invites the taster with its rich aroma and confirms his delight with every bite. And it's nourishing too—thanks to the jar of Junior Squash borrowed from baby's supply.

Slices of this Date-Nut Loaf spread with butter, jelly or cream cheese and teamed up with tall glasses of milk and steaming cups of coffee make for delicious eating.

Or, for a delightful change of pace for the lunchbox set, make sandwiches with two thin slices of this flavorful loaf. Spread with your youngster's favorite filling, these nourishing, just-sweet-enough sandwiches will certainly add a bright note to mid-day meals.

DATE-NUT LOAF

- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ cup shortening
- 2 eggs
- 1 jar Gerber Junior Squash
- 1½ cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon soda
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- ¼ cup cut-up dates

Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in squash. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, and spices. Reserve ¼ cup of the flour mixture and combine with the dates and nuts. Add flour mixture to squash mixture. Stir dates and nuts into batter. Turn batter into greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Preheat oven to 350° F. Bake for about one hour or until bread is done.

Yield: One loaf.

BABE RUTH BASEBALL LEAGUE ORGANIZED

Representatives from the towns of Mattapoisett, Marion and Wareham met Thursday evening, October 23rd, at Old Rochester Regional High School to discuss the organizing of a Babe Ruth baseball league.

This league will allow boys who have graduated from the Little League to continue in organized baseball until they reach the age of 16 years.

Floyd Empey of Mattapoisett was elected chairman of the new organization, to be known as the Capeway Babe Ruth League.

Henry Knight, representing the town of Wareham, and William Coulson, representative for the town of Marion, were chosen to work with the chairman in drafting organizational plans to be presented to the full committee for approval.

Also, an invitation has been extended to the town of Bourne to join the league as a charter member.

There is a very strong need for a program of this type, to help keep the 12 to 15 year old boys interested in baseball, and if the boys and their parents will show the same enthusiasm as the committee, this program will be a success.

The town of Marion was represented at the meeting by Donald Dickerson, Richard Daniels, Donald Nielson and William Coul-

FINANCIAL RESOURCES SUBJECT AT SEMINAR

Financial Resources will be the subject of the weekly seminar series this Thursday, October 30th, from 7:30 to 9:30 P. M. at SEMU in Dartmouth.

With limited flows of both long-term capital and commercial bank credit into the region and the rather wide gap which exists between the returns anticipated by the businessman and the appraisal of the risk by local lenders, potential borrowers in this area can be handicapped in obtaining needed capital. The panel will discuss sources of capital and problems associated with inadequate information among borrowers, the lenders decision making processes and the exercise of market power.

Moderator will be Edward A. Cormier, C.P.A. and Professor, Department of Business Administration, Southeastern Massachusetts University. On the panel will be Chester A. Barrett, chairman, Merchants' National Bank, New Bedford; Joel S. Kane, C.P.A., Kane and Kane, Fall River; and Raymond Andrade, president, Community Ventures Project, New Bedford.

The Junior Orchestra with its 115 players from junior and senior high schools throughout the area is under the direction of Robert Corley, director of Music in the Weston Public Schools. In addition to playing concerts of their own in local communities, they will join with the senior orchestra for a joint program at Symphony Hall, April 19, 1970.

This year the orchestras are expanding their activities: in the afternoon a chamber music program has been incorporated using the musicians of both organizations. Two chamber orchestras, numerous string quartets, brass and woodwind ensembles, and even a percussion ensemble rehearse from 1 P.M. to 3 P.M.

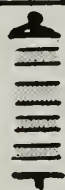

On the opening Saturday a workshop was held. After morning rehearsals, clinics were conducted by a number of respected artists. James Pappoutsakis, flautist; Ronald Feldman, cellist, both of the Boston Symphony conducted master classes for their instruments, as did Roman Totenberg, violin; Milton Stevens, trombone; Robert Winslow, percussion; all of Boston University faculty. Other artists included Natalo and Jean Paella, trumpet and horn; William Wrzesian and James Grush, woodwinds; and Diane Bulgarelli, bass. Following the clinics a sight-reading session finished out the musical activities, and the musicians were treated to a dinner and dance by the Orchestra Board of Directors and the Parents' Committee.

YOUTH SYMPHONY ORCHESTRAS

The Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestras are now well along in their rehearsals for their eleventh year of concerts. The senior orchestra, consisting of 112 high school students from three states and 75 communities is back at work in Boston University's concert hall every Saturday morning, with many stories to tell of their tremendously successful two weeks in Europe.

The orchestra, under the dynamic leadership of Professor Walter Eisenberg of Boston University Faculty, played to standing ovations at the First International Festival of Youth Orchestras in St. Moritz, and the ancient Frau Munster Cathedral in Zurich. From this tour has come invitations for concerts in Israel, Czechoslovakia and other countries.

Mrs. Bancroft's interest in graphology began as a hobby and later expanded into full time study, followed by conducting workshops and teaching courses in graphology. Mrs. Bancroft, using an entirely new approach in the program, "Who Am I?", will help people to learn about themselves and to better understand those with whom they live and work. Aptitudes, attitudes and emotional responses are revealed in handwriting.

Graphology is often used as a tool in personal selection, making possible better employment situations, in individual analyses and studies of families and groups.

Mrs. Bancroft is a graduate of Salve Regina College, a recent professional worker with the Plymouth Bay Council of Girl Scouts, and an active participant in civic affairs of Freetown and surrounding areas.

Also, the program will include at frequent intervals, performances of folk guitarists.
